

POLYMORPHIC

Polymorphic: real name is Oleg Kazakov, is a promising musician from Russia who shares studio rooms with The Proxy in a Moscow District based studio. Polymorphic first released his debut single 'Toxication' under the American label Sweet Rains Records in 2008. Later that year he appeared as a remixer on The Proxy's "Raven" EP on Turbo Recordings. Feedback for this remix of "Raven" was enormous, and many producers/DJ's prefer it to the original. In 2009 there were several successful releases such as the Technomusic EP, Gaze EP and remixes of Fukkk Offf, AutoKratz, Robot Disaster, Lions At Your Door, and Hey Today!, which all have high popularity and great feedback. In the Summer of 2010 his new EP titled "Rock to Play" was released on Mako Records. Soon to follow in Fall of 2010 was his massive remix of Hey Today's track "Strange". Polymorphic's music can better be described as nuclear warfare for your ears. Thanks to the talent of The Proxy and Polymorphic the world has finally begun to speak about Russia as part of the world music scene.
